Fingal County Council

Press Release

April 5, 2018

Fingal Heritage opens Photography Competition for International Monuments and Sites Day

Fingal Heritage is holding a photography competition to mark the ICOMOS International Day of Monuments and Sites celebrated annually on April 18.

The International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS) is a global non-government organisation that is dedicated to the conservation of the world’s architectural and archaeological monuments and sites.

The theme of this year’s competition is Heritage for Generations. With that in mind Fingal is encouraging members of all generations to take a photo of themselves, friends and family at your local heritage site or monument.
Fingal’s Community Archaeologist, Christine Baker said: “This is a fun way of interacting with your local heritage site Fingal’s Community Archaeologist Christine Baker as well as a way passing on knowledge about local sites between different generations.”

Fingal is rich in heritage sites so whether it be a Martello tower, or a graveyard, a castle or a thatched cottage, take a photo and post on Twitter to @FingalHeritage using the hashtags #fingalheritage and #heritage4generations or to facebook page https://www.facebook.com/fingalculturalheritage/ or email to heritage@fingal.ie.

Please obtain the permission of people featured before sharing photos on social media. The completion is open to all (one entry per person). A panel of judges from the heritage section of Fingal County Council will select the best image. The winner will receive a €100 giftcard. The closing date is midnight on Wednesday April 18, 2018.

Ends

For further queries, please contact press@fingal.ie

Caption: Katie Dinneen, daughter of Fingal’s Community Archaeologist, Christine Baker at Baldongan Church, Skerries.