Fingal County Council actively supports the Government’s Rebuilding Ireland Programme through its implementation of the plan’s five pillars. The construction of homes is a key element of this plan and essential in a county with the fastest growing and youngest population in Ireland.

Both the Government and Fingal County Council are heavily investing in the Donabate Peninsula to build a sustainable community through the delivery of physical and social infrastructure and improving connections between the new and existing communities. Almost €14m is currently being spent on the Donabate Distributor Road while €6.6m has been budgeted for the Broadmeadow Greenway. A further €1m was spent on refurbishments at Newbridge House and Demesne and almost €370,000 was allocated to works programmes in Donabate and Portrane in 2018. There will also be further investment in the coming years in housing, schools, a nature park and a recreational hub.

Notwithstanding the views recently attributed to two local Government members of the Oireachtas that construction work on the Donabate peninsula should be delayed, Fingal County Council will continue to implement Government policy and ensure homes are built by activating housing land and delivering supporting infrastructure.
