Newbridge Farm

Having taken on board representations from councillors in relation to the erection of a protective boundary fence at Newbridge Farm, Fingal County Council has reviewed the situation and will be making a number of adjustments to ensure we can continue to implement veterinary advice in relation to the feeding of animals by some members of the public.

The current fence is to be reduced in size and a number of options, including landscaping works and the provision of a hedge behind it, will be considered to protect the animals from direct contact with members of the public wishing to feed the animals. All the animals at Newbridge Farm should not be fed at any stage by members of the public.
